BANDIT KILLS HURLEY'S AXE TROOPER IN MICHIGAN

Monroe, Mich., Jan. 20 (AP)—Execution of a state policeman shackled unconscious to a rural mailbox today called off a band of three states in the most intensive hunt for a killer in Michigan's history.

Their quarry was Alphonse (Frenchy) Beaud, 25-year-old former convict and motor theft suspect who overpowered Patrolman Richards F. Hammond in a police patrol car after an arrest last midnight.

The trooper's body was found slumped against the mailbox near 21st and 10th miles north of Monroe, five miles later.

Comer Ernest Threlk said Hammond had been slugged with a pistol butt, dragged to the steel post supporting the box, and shot through the head. The mailbox was blood-spattered.

FILES INTO WOODS
Sleet covered highways hampered the search in which officers from Ohio and Indiana joined. Bad weather grounded airplanes from which observers were to have scouted the area.

Threlk abandoned the patrol car. The trooper's body was found slumped against the mailbox near 21st and 10th miles north of Monroe, five miles later.

Gale, Snow, Sleet, Rain—Then Warmer
Storm warnings for the entire Atlantic coast from the Virginia Capes to Eastport, Me., were issued in order of the U. S. Weather Bureau today.

Winds of gale force were expected south of Sandy Hook today and along the New England coast by tonight.

The gale will ease away, changing to sleet and rain as rising temperatures are expected tonight. Experiencing a temporary drop of the mercury to a low of 15, Greater Boston, as well as New England, was due for a return of warmer weather, according to the forecast.

NO TREASURY STATEMENT
Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—No Treasury statement will be issued today because of the inauguration. Government holiday.

Voluntary or forced retirement of Commissioner of Public Works William F. Callahan looms on Beacon Hill as the next move in the open warfare between Governor Charles F. Hurley and Executive Councilor Daniel H. Coakley.

The gauge of battle was thrown down by the governor through an order which brought about the firing of Timothy W. Coakley, son of the Democratic councilor.

Young Coakley, employed for a year and one half as foreman in the motor vehicle repair division of the department of public works, was let out with six others.

In the realignment of forces within the party, the incident lines up a powerful group against the Governor, already under long-distance fire from former Governor James M. Curley, and facing the direct hostility of Attorney General Paul A. Dever.

Commissioner Callahan, close friend of Councilor Coakley, is said to have appealed to the State House for a writ of habeas corpus for Francis E. Kelly and the women to explain warrants for bond damage claims in Newbury and in Roxbury.

The first concern a taking on of Newbury's tamper in the amount of $25,000. The other is for an assessment with the amount set at $25,000.

Blows of the lieutenant governor, forced postponement of the meeting, however.

Councilors Frank A. Brooks of Watertown and Eugene A. F. Hart of Somerville, Republicans, yesterday made personal deposition of the lieutenant.

Cancel Wilhelm's Birthday Fete
Doris Holland, Jan. 20 (AP)—The birthday party of Wilhelm II, 78th emperor of Germany, Jan. 27, were cancelled today, just after recovery from a mild attack of grip.

It was stated the step was taken as a "wise precaution" against further strain.

Kelly Cold Halts Council Session
The Commonwealth was without an active chief executive today. With Governor Charles F. Hurley in Washington, in effect the inauguration of President Roosevelt, Lieutenant Governor Francis E. Kelly, acting governor, was and duty continued to his bed with a severe cold.

Two important state functions, one of them requiring his presence and the other permitting a substitute, were scheduled today.

The council was to conduct a hearing on land damage claims to be presented on behalf of the State House, department by Associate Commissioner Richard K. Hale.

Kelly was scheduled to swear in four minor constitutional officers of the state—Secretary of State Frederic W. Cook, State Auditor Thomas H. Dickey, and State Treasurer William E. Hurley.

The personal physician visited Kelly twice today.

PRESIDENT PLEDGES PEACE, PROSPERITY

In Washington Today

Franklin D. Roosevelt, in his second inauguration, takes the oath as the 32d President of the United States.

Torrents of rain kept the actual spectators of the ceremonies down to thousands, although Washington estimates 300,000 visitors in the city.

The President pledges to continue to "carry on," giving peace and prosperity to a nation he found four years ago in the throes of the worst depression of all times. He gives in his inaugural address a new "test of the nation" and lists some of his objectives.

Many festivities are yet to feature inaugural ceremonies.

Thousands Fail To See Service
Capitol Plaza, Washington, Jan. 20 (INS)—Franklin D. Roosevelt took the oath of office as the 32nd President of the United States today before one of the smallest immediate audiences in the history of its inauguration.

Although Washington was rained to the gunwales with sleet, a peering cold rain, almost a downpour, operated to keep most of the visitors away from the broad capital plaza, which ordinarily is packed to sardine compactness.

They stayed away literally in thousands. Those who came huddled under umbrellas, wrapped close, with slippers and raincoats.

Mr. Roosevelt himself was only seen in the distance, as he rode up Pennsylvania avenue and during the ceremonies incident to inauguration.

Complete Text of President's Address
Washington, Jan. 20 (AP)—The following is the text of President Roosevelt's inaugural address:

My Fellow-Countrymen:
When four years ago we met to inaugurate a President, the republic, single-minded in anxiety, stood in spirit here. We dedicated ourselves to the fulfillment of a vision—to spend the time when there would be for all the people that security and peace essential to the pursuit of happiness.

We of the republic pledged ourselves to drive from the temple of our ancient faith those who had profaned it; to end by action, tireless and unafraid, the stagnation and despair of that day.

We did those first things first.

Our covenant with ourselves did not stop there. Instinctively we recognized a deeper need—the need to find through government the instrument of our united purpose to solve for the individual the ever-rising problems of a complex civilization.

"We had no intention of striking," said Cutler, "and we are not." Employment, he said, had been 60 per cent of normal.

At Laika, Mich., and fled on foot into a woods after exchanging shots with two Monroe county deputies. John Smith, 26, alias Mike Delbert, also a former convict, was arrested with Bennett, Smith is currently being held in the Monroe county jail. Bennett had a pistol concealed in his trouser leg when they were seized by Hammond and Trooper Sam Bennett.

The officers were watching for two men who had abducted Fred Williams, Detroit used auto salesman, in a motorcade he demonstrated Monday night, and left him tied to a tree near Detroit.

Trooper Bennett placed Smith in the stolen car and started to Monroe. Hammond and Bennett followed in the patrol car.

"I know where he was wrong when Hammond's car started south on Telegraph road instead of coming into Monroe," Bennett said. "What's up, I asked Smith, he replied, 'No, he's got a red.' The Smiths, however, had the pistol concealed on his person."

BARRICADES ROAD

Bennett followed the patrol car ten miles south where Bennett forced Hammond to block the highway with his vehicle.

Rimini started on foot toward the car, exchanging shots with Bennett until the fugitive fled in the car, with Hammond and Bennett.

Rimini's car was fired at by the patrol car. He was unable to follow.

Two Monroe County deputies, Sheriff J. D. Darnall and Robert Navarro, came upon the hunted car with Smith and in the fight battle ensued, with Bennett finally abandoning the patrol car. He escaped on foot into nearby woods. In the blood-stained car was the uniform coat of Trooper Hammond. It was saturated with blood.

At 9 a. m. officers patrolling roads in the area came upon the body of the missing trooper. Hammond had been shot through the head. His body was slumped against a rural mail box and his wrists were shackled with his own handcuffs to a steel post.

Trooper Bennett brought Smith to the Erie barracks after the gun battle and then joined the search for the former convict.

Find Frozen Body In Cambridge Mystery

On a road known as "Lovers Lane," the body of a man about 25 years old was found today in the exclusive section of Cambridge road, Cambridge, 30 feet from the Waterbury line.

Patrolmen Robert Alderman and Charles Koff, passing in a patrol car, discovered the body, finding and covered with ice.

There were no marks on the body and no indication of death by violence. City Inspector Sergeant Patrick R. Brady said there was no indication of death by violence.

The body was lying on the road at the rear of M. Auburn cemetery, four feet from a wall.

Police said the man may be one of the Works Progress Administration workers now employed in the cemetery. He was dressed in drawers and a zipper jacket.

An examination of the clothing failed to reveal a single clue as to the identity of the man.

Several workers viewed the body and told police it was "familiar" but could not identify the man as a friend or acquaintance.

An autopsy will be performed later.

Because of the condition of the body it was feared he might have fallen into a nearby brook or swamp about 25 feet on the other side of the wall and then staggered into the road to drop dead of exhaustion.

HUNDREDS FLEE FLOOD AREAS IN MID-WEST

By the Associated Press

Main-swollen streams battered levees with unabated fury in the Middle West today, sweeping over levees and forcing hundreds of families from flood-engulfed homes. Anxiety for the safety of thousands of other persons was heightened by forecasts of additional rain in portions of Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Illinois and Arkansas.

Red Cross officials said at least 50 families evacuated homes in the vicinity of Keosauqua and Seneca, Mo., where the raging St. Francis river gushed through at least nine levee breaks. Wrecked emergency workers demolished levees a last ditch effort to restrain the stream.

FLOODS INUNDATED

Thousands of acres of farm lands were inundated along the Missouri-Arkansas line Monday night. Black Oak, Ark., and the rich farming area of northwestern Arkansas faced flood waters. Farmers and sharecroppers joined in the task of building the St. Francis within its banks in lower Indian country, Mo.

The White river, climbing steadily in such an hour, threatened levee breaks and flooded thousands of acres of farm land in the vicinity of Hannibal, in southern Indiana.

Flovers in southern Illinois rose steadily. Many persons in the vicinity of Hannibal, Mo., were threatened by their homes being swept away and fled to higher ground.

The city council of Hannibal, Mo., requested for shelter for refugees.

SHUT SHELTER IN CHURCH

Thirty-five persons found shelter in a suburban Cincinnati church. Scores of homes were without gas and food, endangering the lives of many persons afflicted with influenza.

Activity in Pittsburgh included the rescue of a woman from a burning house. Rescuees proceeded after reaching a 25th floor.

While some parts of the Middle West fought flood waters, others suffered from a severe winter storm and sub-zero weather. Two persons died in North Dakota and one in Iowa.

Far West Shivers in Arctic Grip

Los Angeles, Jan. 20 (AP)—Arctic weather held shivering western states in its icy grasp, menacing for a second time the month the automobile industry crops of California.

Three deaths were reported as blizzards rode with a polar air mass sweeping down from the frozen expanse of western Canada.

Blinding snow was blamed for a truck-collision south of Salt Lake City in which Carl McCarty, 35, of Glendale, Calif., was killed. Hugh Malloy was found frozen to death, three blocks from his Buick, Montclair, N. J.

Food supplies were being rushed to snow-bound parties in Southern California and southern Nevada.

DEATH Makes Widow CAPTIVE

CAN'T LEAVE HOME COUNTY

Stow Hill, Md., Jan. 20 (INS)—Until the March grand jury votes either a murder or suicide verdict in the mysterious shooting of her husband, Mrs. Jeaneffe Bell Traylor, state-eyed, soft-spoken widow, must remain within the confines of Worcester county, State's Attorney Thomas F. Johnson ordered today.

She promised.

The State's Attorney issued his order after she had been interrogated for three hours in the old brick county courthouse. The 35-year-old widow was not arrested.

After she was permitted to go back to Rockville, Md., from Stow Hill, where the owner of the Rockville Electric Light & Power Company was found shot to death last Thursday night, Johnson announced.

"The evidence we have gathered at this time does not justify the issuance of a warrant. We have decided, therefore, however, that this case go before the grand jury."

It will be left before the March grand jury unless sensational developments occur. In that event I would ask that the present, held over grand jury be impaneled immediately."

The widow's grandfather died of a smallpox fever in the county. Mrs. Traylor, defendant in a divorce action against her husband, was the only other person in the house, but she says she heard a shot fired and ran to her husband's room where she found him shot.

Drinking heavily of late, he killed himself according to her story. Ownership of the weapons picked in Rockville house still is undetermined. The widow said it did not belong to her.

Sergeant Martin Backus of the State police has learned that the wife of the man who was shot, a Connecticut factory worker, beyond that it has not been heard.

AFTER Townsend DOLLARS

SOUVENIR FAN PERIL TO PLAN

Chelan, Wash., Jan. 20 (AP)—Souvenir hunters played the nation's first Townsend revolving dollar experiment here today while 61-year-old C. C. Fleming, the spender, said he guessed "me and mother will just rest and window shop today."

Tom Lamb, Chelan county Town supervisor and donor of the $200 for the vicinity dollar experiment, said souvenir hunters from outside of town were endangering the plan by snatching off the market dollars.

"If they don't stop they may harm the plan," Lamb declared.

As money in its signatures on the faces attached to some of the mangled bills attested to their speed of circulation, every merchant or citizen who was one of the bills in a business deal voluntarily pays a 2 per cent transaction tax. Total tax receipts were reported today at $4.95, with all but four dollars in the community having handed at least one of the bills.

Dizzy Spurge

Meanwhile with $100.00 of his $200 spent in a dizzy three-day shopping whirl, the dazed-faced, unemployed orchard worker said he and his wife were followed by the excitement.

"We've got to take a day off and enjoy what we've bought," he commented, with a weary display of his four-day sojourn.

He pointed out a new school-bus "Ford" for the 13 Fleming children and grandchildren.

While others here were excited about the plan, Dean Ralph E. Farmer, of the Idaho State of Business Administration, at Moscow, Idaho, said water on it.

"People will have a tendency to spend this marked money faster than any other," Dean Farmer commented. Therefore it will have a quicker turnover, could provide the next month's $200, but attempting it in an isolated case and this and at attempting it nationally are two different problems.

How He Spent

Here's where Fleming's money "Sundays—Church, $1; Townsend Club dues, $1.

Monday—Wife's permanent wave, $5; haircut, $5; groceries, $1.50; light bill, $1.50; meat, $1.50; wife's hat, $1.50; boy, $1.50; daily newspaper subscription, $1.

Tuesday—House rent, $20; new overcoat for first in 12 years, $20; box of cigars for friends, $2.00; silk stockings and other incidental clothing for wife, $3.00.

Outside INVESTMENTS Are Hit

By RICH E. BRADSHAW
It is a judge by current reports from Washington on the railroad situation the New Haven served as the official corpse for those experts seeking a bankruptcy cure via the medium of post mortems.

T. C. Kinsman, of L. Mohrman & Co., New York, forward with a general criticism, based of course, on the experience of the Southern New England carrier.

He finds that the New Haven in all probability would have been able to avoid bankruptcy had heavy outside investments been made. Mr. Mohrman then continues by offering sharp criticism of railroad investing in the past and concludes that they have been largely responsible for the present situation. The accumulation of all this criticism in the proposed report on the New Haven is the investigation of the New Haven in the past.

The Commission is given authority over all investments except in new cars.

The transportation market for bonds and stocks has been reported to rise in a much more lively affair today than the case a month or so ago. Bank stocks, held in Boston, New York, and other cities, have been in good demand.

Yap, who is in the position of improved interest in the market, has no doubt that the railroad earnings record for the past year and the outlook for the future is good. However, such activity is largely concentrated in the market. Thus, it should be noted, are not considered the real index, one looks to the market for the railroad market.

Under the circumstances, the market is not so much a reflection of the railroad market as it is a reflection of the general market.

Notes: The copper stocks look about right for a technical rally. After all the situation in the red metal market is the same as it was a few days ago. And we say this even though we suggested selling the group last week.

And that that is not the only thing to make long term commodities in our opinion.

Review of the past and current market conditions. The leading companies are worthy of attention as a market. And their recent financial performance is not necessarily a reflection of their future opportunities.

The market has slipped today after a week that is somewhat better. But a general decline in the market is not a surprise. The market has been in a state of uncertainty since the announcement of the new tax law. The market has been in a state of uncertainty since the announcement of the new tax law.

LABOR TROUBLES

Cause SERIOUS Concern

By R. C. FORBES
"Never sell stocks on strikes" is one of Wall Street's oldest axioms.

But the present labor trouble involves such basic principles that axioms are in fact in the highest circles. This is being reflected by hesitancy in the stock market.

Men of affairs claim that this is not a strike against non-union men. It is a strike against any industry.

It is a strike against any industry. It is a strike against any industry. It is a strike against any industry.

Many employers thoroughly sympathize with the strikers. Many employers thoroughly sympathize with the strikers. Many employers thoroughly sympathize with the strikers.
